WOMEN APPLAUD ACT OF GIRL ON TRIAL IN AUBURN

Mothers Declare Alma Bell Did Just Right in Shooting the Youth Who Betrayed Her

Mount Sinai, excusing a homicide on the sole plea of wronged honor.

And District Attorney Tuttle plans to make this fact one of his chief weapons just as Josephine did in the three cases. There is much of a parallel in the two cases. In each the defense was to either the unwritten law of temporary insanity or a pleading of self-defense. The main legal points are identical.

SIMILAR TO THAW CASE

Tuttle puts great stress on the absence of such a law when examining jurors. The great difference in the two cases is of course that this is to be tried before a jury, and that in the Thaw case it was a code of honor more real than the laws of the state. In the Thaw case the defendant was a poor girl, the defendant in the present case was a well-to-do girl, the defendant in the Thaw case was a poor girl, the defendant in the present case was a well-to-do girl.

INSURANCE PAYS LAWYERS

The $5,000 insurance on Joe Alma Bell is said to be helping in the fight to convict his girl slayer.

An attorney is being paid out of this money to prosecute the case. The insurance was paid by the father of the girl, who is now in the hospital.

PRACTICED WITH REVOLVER

She had a practice with a revolver some days before the killing and went to his room that night with the intention of killing him. We will show that she was practicing with the revolver in the hospital.

I LOVED JOE

Talking with a child like Alma Bell, the reporter did not feel that she was a cold, calculating, malicious creature, but rather a girl who had been misled and who was now seeking to make amends.

I HAVE KILLED HIM

According to the transcript of the testimony at the preliminary hearing, Mrs. Fitzpatrick, when she saw the girl in the hospital, she said to her, "I have killed him."

WE WILL DIE TOGETHER

Very well then, I told you I would kill you. We will die together.

fertile fruit bearing foothills of Auburn and have room in the heart for the kind of mature hatred that makes murderers.

AUBURN Nov. 8.—Will the unwritten law acquit Alma Bell of murder?

This is the question uppermost in the minds of Auburn residents. The girl is on trial for the killing of her sweetheart, Joseph Arnes, on June 5 last at the Arnes ranch near Newcastle.

HIDES NEXT BODY

When found the next day by the police she was hiding under some brush within a stone's throw from where her sweetheart fell. She said she had traveled many miles in her delirium but had come back to her room the one she loved for a reason for the killing she said.

PRETTY RIVAL COMES

She still wears the ring she never parted with any other young man. When Arnes' father died his February birthday was like at the Arnes home and helped with the work. This was the turning point in her life.

PROMISES TO BE BETTER

In reply to an interviewer's question as to whether she started to climb the steps of the courtroom from the jail to the courtroom the other day, Alma Bell said she was going to live with her mother. She said she was going to live with her mother and that she was going to live with her mother.

FEAR UNWRITTEN LAW PLEA

The questions propounded to the jury may be the plea of the unwritten law. The jury is to decide whether the girl is guilty of murder or whether she is guilty of a lesser crime.

BUICK WINS IN RACE ACROSS DESERT

Makes 240 Miles on Bad Roads in 12 Hours and Seven Minutes

FIVE RACING CARS-ARE COMPETITORS IN TEST

Feat of Buick Beats Former Record by Almost Eight Hours

PHOENIX Ariz Nov 8.—The Buick won the Los Angeles Phoenix auto race, arriving at Phoenix at 106 12 1/2 this afternoon.

EBERNBURG Ariz Nov 8.—Beginning at daylight today the five big racing cars that remain with an apparent chance of winning the 171 mile race from Los Angeles to Phoenix start 1 east across the desert sands of Arizona on the last lap. The cars were started from the river at this point at 4 o'clock 15 minutes apart. The Isotta was first out and a quarter of an hour later the Buick driven by the Nikrent brothers, followed.

BUICK IN LEAD

The Buick stands a winner as the race, being 10 minutes ahead of the Isotta. The car broke previous records from Los Angeles to the Colorado River making the 210 miles of the worst road in the West in 12 hours and 11 minutes. The best previous time was 21 hours 27 minutes. If the Buick is able to hold the pace against the faster Isotta for the remaining 51 miles to the goal at Phoenix, the race is won.

The three other cars ferried across the river last night were the Pennsylvania Columbia and Studebaker. They each left the river in the order named and went away today 5 minutes apart following the Isotta and Buick. The Pennsylvania is more than two hours behind the Buick in elapsed time and the others are still further back.

BREAKS STEERING GEAR

The Kissel car which broke its steering gear yesterday near More got into the race again and reached the river at 4:30 this morning. It was ferried across at once and resumed the drive to Phoenix.

Unless the Isotta and the Buick both meet with disaster the final sprint will be a home stretch to the Arizona capital, the race is between them. There is a possibility that any or all of the leading cars may go in pieces in the rough desert road, but that one of the delayed cars may win but this is considered improbable.

NOON HOUR MEET IS BIG SUCCESS

Employees of Three Big Concerns-Gather in Bond Rally

The first big noon hour rally of the campaign was held today at Sixteenth and Wood streets where the employees of the Del Monte Mills Dalton Bros. Foundry and the California Sash and Door Factory made up the audience.

R. D. Holmes manager of the Del Monte Mills presided and introduced the speaker, the speaker tersely told the history of the water front and of the plan of docks and wharves which was to be inaugurated if the bond issue carried.

H. C. Clag president of the Chamber of Commerce spoke of the great advantage that would come to the city as a result of the success of the bonds and annexation.

C. M. Wardell representing the Building Trades Council urged the bonds as the only way of creating opportunities for labor and as an incentive to the location here of industries and workmen.

E. P. Miller declared that Oakland's employment to a vast army of workmen like an amalgam plate that could catch the fine gold that was being lost by the city was being run off to the land of the future.

A. W. Sinton Jr. of the Central Labor Council urged both bonds and annexation from the standpoint of the benefit to labor and of the general welfare.

He argued that the people and the home material men will benefit from the expenditure of the bonds in none.

Neph B. Greenfield urged the bonds as the only way of creating opportunities for labor and as an incentive to the location here of industries and workmen.

The meeting adjourned with a singing of the national anthem and the majority of the people who attended the rally were in the streets in need of conversation.

POLICE CAPTURE 11-YEAR-OLD BURGLAR

Youth Nabbed in Act of Looting Store-Companion Escapes

WON'T TELL POLICE NAME OF CONFEDERATE

Lad Fails to Hear 'Look-Out's' Whistle and Is Caught Red-Handed

Robert Rowe, an 11-year-old burglar was captured made shortly after midnight by Policemen Hemphill on the roof of the tobacco store of Edward H. Gruenhagen at 502 East Twelfth street. The boy had crawled through a skylight to steal while a 18-year-old confederate for whom the police are now searching kept watch for him on the street.

OLDER CONFEDERATE

Young Rowe confessed that he had gone into the store to rob it. He could not tell the name of his confederate who is supposed to live in Fruitvale. According to the younger boy's story, his companion met him yesterday afternoon at the Broadway Theater and invited him to go on a burglary expedition. The younger boy assented and the pair left for East Oakland.

"BOOSTED" ON TO ROOF

Arrived at Gruenhagen's store the big boy gave the little boy a boost to the top of the building and directed him how to open the skylight and get in. The little boy was doing what he was told when Hemphill hove into sight. The boy had crawled into the store and was standing in the approach of danger. He did whistle, but the little boy thought he heard the signal could not escape in time. His companion took to his heels and got away while Hemphill took young Rowe into custody.

Young Rowe was placed in the detention home and his case will be investigated by the probation officer. It is said that he is an irresponsible lad and cannot really be blamed for his acts.

Women Fight Burglar; One Gives Pursuit in 'Nightie' as He Flees

MRS. LUCY PALMER, who rolled down flight of steps with loaded gun in her hand in a struggle with notorious thug.

Rolling down a flight of stairs with a loaded and half cocked pistol clutched tightly in her hand Mrs. Lucy Palmer manager of the Winton House, Ninth and Washington streets, narrowly escaped death in a struggle with a burglar early yesterday morning when she attempted to intercept Charles J. Johnson a notorious thing who gained entrance to a room on the second floor of the house by means of a skeleton key. Johnson was finally arrested after a running battle and is now in custody.

WOMAN DISCOVERS THIEF.

The thief's presence was first discovered by Mrs. Daisy Wagner a roomer who awakening shortly before 8 o'clock found the door of her room open and shutting of drawers in the apartment adjoining her own which is occupied by C. F. Merrithew a tinnerman in the employ of the Southern Pacific.

Knowing that Merrithew who is employed during the night, was not in the habit of returning home until shortly before 9 o'clock in the morning her suspicions were aroused and running into the hall she summoned Mrs. Palmer, who was up and dressed. Fearlessly the land lady who was on a lower floor ran up the stairs meeting Johnson at the top.

HELD WITH PISTOL

Glancing hastily around in an effort to find another means of escape, the thug evidently desperate, gruffly demanded that he be allowed to pass. Without answering Mrs. Palmer whipped out a pistol which she had concealed in her skirts and cocking the weapon detained the burglar for at least three minutes while Mrs. Wagner on a lower floor telephoned frantically for the police.

Realizing the danger of the delay Mrs. Palmer called loudly to several of the roomers but her cries were silenced by Johnson who throwing himself on the woman attempted to wrest the gun from her. Faint with pain from his brutal grasp on her wrist Mrs. Palmer reeled and Johnson taking advantage of his opportunity gave the woman a shove which sent them both hurtling down the stairs.

WOMAN IN PURSUIT.

When they reached the bottom the burglar unable to make the woman release her grasp, raised his foot evidently intending to crush her face with his heel then with a sudden movement freed himself and ran out into the street.

He was closely pursued by Mrs. Wagner who realizing Mrs. Palmer's condition ran down the stairs in her night robes screaming loudly to passersby to stop the fleeing thug who ran directly into the arms of Policemen Thomas Gallagher and Police Court Bailiff Charles McCarthy who were standing at Eighth and Franklin in civilian clothes.

WEARS STOLEN CLOTHES.

When captured Johnson was clad in two suits of Merithew's clothes, which he had slipped on over his own and when searched at the police station, where he is being held on a charge of assault and grand larceny, trinkets money several loose emblems and many keys were found on his person.

Johnson is thought to be a recently released convict who has been operating as a sneak thief in the bay cities for several weeks past, and Captain of Detectives Peterson today instituted an investigation of his past record. Johnson has confessed to the burglar, though he denies that he is a professional crook.

He asserts that he came originally from Denver but states that he has made his home more recently in Portland and Council Bluffs.

THUGS ROB AND BEAT A STEVEDORE

Knocked Him Down and Then Kicked Him With Their Heavy Boots

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8. — Knocked to the street by a blow from behind, kicked into insensibility by three thugs who literally danced upon his prostrate form, Joseph Weber, stevedore, residing at 123 East street, was robbed of $2 in cash and his watch and chain at a late hour last night.

Weber had been attending the Broadway nickelodeon and was returning home along Pacific street between Sanson and Battery streets, when he felt himself struck and, doubling up, fell to the ground.

Three men who had been following him, then proceeded to pummel him, kicking him with their heavy boots until he ceased to try to make resistance. Going through his pockets and securing his valuables, they then made their escape.

A few moments later Weber was able to stagger to his feet, but as he entered the door of his hotel, still bleeding from numerous wounds, he fell unconscious.

The proprietor, Charles Osterberg, notified the police and the injured man was conveyed to the Harbor hospital where Dr. Howell found that his nose had been broken, that he had sustained bruises of the entire body, possible internal injuries, and multiple wounds of the scalp.

Policemen Dover and Connor were unable to find a trace of the thugs.

JAPANEES WHIP WHITES IN FIGHT

Resent Insult; Wield Clubs and Bottles on Two Laborers.

Resentful epithets addressed to them, which they interpreted as casting discredit upon their nationality, six Japanese, wielding bottles as weapons, attacked and severely beat Alexander Orr and Robert Boyd, laborers, residing at Ninth and Webster streets. K. Mamoki, one of the party, was arrested and is being held in detention. The other Japs have not yet been arrested.

The fight occurred early yesterday morning at Seventh and Webster streets. According to Mamoki, Orr and Boyd were under the influence of liquor and started the trouble by insulting language and physical force. Blows followed, the two white men flooring their antagonists with well directed rights and lefts. Some of the latter, however, picked up bottles and subdued their enemies with blows over the head.

The white men were treated at the Emergency hospital for scalp and face wounds.

AS WRONG TO SELL AS TO SMOKE TOBACCO

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 8. — "It is wrong to smoke tobacco, it is wrong to sell it."

This was the way S. N. Bross, a grocer of this city, reasoned after professing religion at a revival here and yesterday he piled his entire stock of smoking and chewing tobacco in the street and burned it. He then held a revival service in his store.

Chronic Insomnia and Indigestion

THE ONE IS ALMOST ALWAYS ASSOCIATED WITH AND CAUSED BY THE OTHER.

Sleep has been fittingly called "Nature's sweet restorer." It is a condition in which the involuntary functions such as nutrition, circulation, respiration, etc., go on as usual, while the voluntary powers are in repose, and the system undergoes needed repairs. No one has ever been known to live longer than three weeks without sleep. It is as necessary in physical economy as food and drink.

Insomnia, or chronic sleeplessness, is a symptom with which nearly every sufferer from dyspepsia is annoyed, either constantly or at frequent and irregular intervals. This inability to sleep normally is a very prominent manifestation of indigestion, and exhibits itself in different forms. In some cases sleep may come at its accustomed time, but it does not bring repose, and the person awakens entirely too soon, and is unable to fall asleep again. In others the victim lies awake practically all night, tossing and rolling, and finally drops into a troubled and restless slumber at daybreak. Still others, though they may apparently sleep soundly, are annoyed with the incubus, or nightmare, with its horrors of overwhelming waves, falls from precipitous heights and attacks by infuriated and implacable monsters.

All of these distressing symptoms are traceable to an irritated and enfeebled stomach, and the same is true of grinding teeth, and twitching and jerking of the muscles during sleep.

Insomnia is rarely a disease by itself, but is early always a symptom of another disease, such as dyspepsia, and in treating this complaint, many persons in their efforts to "woo the god of sleep," resort to the use of such hypnotics, sedatives, narcotics and barbiturates as bromides, chloral hydrate, Dover powders and even morphine.

No greater mistake than this could well be made, and the needless use of such drugs has caused many a sudden death, while in other cases, even moderate use has set up an incurable drug habit, and those who resort to the use of "sleeping powders."

To cure insomnia or sleeplessness the object should be to remove the cause, and as dyspepsia is the underlying cause in a large percentage of cases, no better or safer remedy can be employed than STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS. By digesting every particle of food in the stomach, the active and exciting cause of insomnia is cut short at its source and removed.

These tablets contain only wholesome ingredients, and there is no danger of falling into drug-using habits from their use. Every sufferer from insomnia should avoid the egregious error of using hypnotic drugs, as they never cure the trouble, but only make matters worse in the end.

Begin taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at once, using one or two after each meal, and the same number at bed time. It is also well to have a box of these powerful digestives close at hand during the night, so that in case you are troubled with dyspeptic insomnia, uneasiness in the stomach, or any other symptoms of indigestion, quick relief may be obtained.

'A Very Bad Boy' Is Best Comedy Sketch Seen Here in Many Moons

HAL GODFREY, who essays the leading role in "A Very Bad Boy," a side-splitting comedy at the Orpheum.

A real "bad boy" in all that the term implies — the badness consisting in running away from wealthy parents in Chicago, coming west via the "side door Pullman" route to stay wild and wooly "Injun" dodging in his travels the police officers who had been beseeched by an anxious father to round him up and return him to the family fireside and finally ending up in Arizona where he became a full-fledged cow puncher — one day discovering a mining claim which sold for enough to carry him on a lurid, kaleidoscopic trip through Europe, going broke at Monte Carlo where he tried to "break the bank," and finally a cable home for necessary funds to again reach the shelter of the paternal roof — are a few of the exciting episodes in the life of Hal Godfrey, who takes the leading role in "A Very Bad Boy," the side-splitting comedy sketch which is being presented at the Orpheum this week.

ONLY FOURTEEN THEN.

Godfrey several years ago gained a most as much fame as "Charley Ross,"

the lost youngster who put the whole

United States in a furor and who was never found despite a country-wide search. Godfrey was sought all over the west and his anxious parents in Chicago offered a big reward for his return home.

Godfrey was only a youth of fourteen then — he is only a young man of twenty-three now — but in character delineation

he is the cleverest that Oakland Orpheumgoers have seen in many years. His little sketch, "A Very Bad Boy," probably won more spontaneous laughs in less time at yesterday afternoon's opening performance than any sketch ever before presented at the Oakland vaudeville house.

Godfrey's sketch — he wrote it himself — is not the depiction of events in the life of an untidy youngster as the name would imply — but merely sets forth in comedy form the trials and tribulations of a "very good boy" who encounters a saucy woman and a worldly-wise man when he applies for a job as companion and tutor to a young nephew of the twain.

The role calls for clever acting. The sketch itself is not complicated and so simple that in the hands of a less clever actor would fall flat. Godfrey was forced to respond to a half dozen curtain calls yesterday — which attests to the merits of his work.

PRETTY BAD BOY.

"The folks at home consider me a pretty bad boy yet," says Godfrey. "I wasn't home very long after returning from that disastrous trip to Monte Carlo before I skipped out to become a thesis. I've been one every since — only

I've broke away from a fly-by-night company which was the means of my first stage venture, and have gone into vaudeville. My family don't like my being an actor and have made me several good offers to quit the stage — but I won't. I'm going to stick to it."

Next week Godfrey and his company will present "The Liar," a thrilling comedy drama which with "A Very Bad Boy" was presented abroad and which last week in San Francisco was declared the most dramatic sketch ever seen in vaudeville in that city.

THROWN TO STREET.

The clergyman was thrown heavily to the street, and his driver was pitched forward on to the shaft. Harry Pack, a bartender for the Overton Cafe, who was in the car, was also hurled to the pavement and was the most seriously hurt. Father

Pius was able to proceed on his way in an automobile that was summoned, and declared that he was not hurt enough to go to a hospital. Back however, had received a broken arm and a broken wrist, a deep lacerated wound of the scalp and possible internal injuries, which were treated at the Central

Emergency hospital.

Lucas was taken into custody by Policemen Schoombs and booked for latency.

The only other occupant of the machine was Charles G. Preston, who also escaped uninjured. The auto had been for a spin along the boulevard and was returning home at the time of the accident.

KIDNAPERS OF GIRL ARE HELD TO ANSWER

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. — Two alleged kidnapers, Antonio Trifiro and Giovanni

Gargi, caught after a two-week chase

in the West, have been held for trial in a police court in $10,000 bail. Rosie

Gardano, 7 years old, who was kidnapped in 1907, identified the prisoners, and her mother, Mrs. Pietro Gardano, declared that she had paid $500 when he threatened to cut the girl up in small pieces and return her by mail if a ransom was not paid. Eight days after the kidnapping, the girl was picked up in the street near her home.

ACTOR'S POCKET PICKED IN CROWD BY THIEVES

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8. — While entertaining in a crowd listening to the performance of other entertainers in a Pacific street theater early this morning,

Edward Dugan, an actor, had his pocket picked of a valuable gold watch. Pol-licemen Boland and Eigelow were called in and on surveillance the assemblage they quickly spotted Louis Scott, an old offender who was promptly taken into custody and booked at the city prison for grand larceny. The officers claim to have conclusive evidence against him.

URGES BENEFITS OF ANNEXATION

A Resident of Fitchburg Cites Instances of Its Advantages.

In the following communication the writer sets forth the advantages that will accrue to the outside district from annexation:

FITCHBURG, November 8, 1909.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: Apropos of the proposed annexation of this territory to the city of Oakland, I would like to say that in my mind the most important issue to Fitchburg and Elmhurst is the 8-cent fare. At the time of the earthquake and fire in San Francisco I resided there, but not long after that event, I decided to move to the mainland and near a large city, which, for some good reason, did not suffer from fire and earthquake as did San Francisco, only four miles distant. Figuring that 'twas as hard to buy a home in Oakland as in San Francisco on an ordinary salary at that time, I decided to purchase a site and build a home in the suburbs and enjoy the proximity of a large city, with its opportunities for recreation and shopping facilities.

But upon my first trip to Oakland from Fitchburg I awoke to the fact that a second fare was collected at High street; then I realized the reason property was so reasonable in price. That to avail myself of Oakland's opportunities I must pay an annual tribute of about $15 in 10-cent trips to ride five miles. In spite of this drawback I still spoke enthusiastically of our climate and fine natural advantages in the way of water and rail transportation. Many of my friends crossed the bay to visit me, and I then acknowledged that, while fogs prevailed in San Francisco, here we enjoyed warm sunshine and tempered breezes. I urged several to settle in the community, but most of them said: "Still, admit that your schools are excellent, car service good, climate fine, and the main artery, East

Fourteenth street, is well lighted, but it costs 10 cents to reach Oakland, where you must go for recreation shopping, and, in most cases, your employment. You have no sewers, and though I might buy real estate here, for the prices are reasonable, everything considered, I'll never improve it or live here until I can ride to Oakland for 5 cents and send you instalments of some sort." The sewerage matter has been settled, for practically all of the territory has been sewered, or bonds voted for that purpose.

There is no doubt that they will vote bonds for the 15th inst., thereby providing sewers for all the district, without one cent of expense to the city of Oakland. At present the Homestead

Light district is assessed 42 cents per $100 for sixteen lights and 40 cents per $100 of road tax. Both of these are excessive and could be "cured" by annexation.

Certain outside events of this current week will tend to attract capital to this side of the bay for investment.

Should we annex now we will surely get our share of the benefits, for we have great natural advantages which we cannot develop in our present condition.

Who can say what fare we may have to pay in order to reach Oakland or San Francisco on the new lines of the Southern Pacific, Western Pacific or Key Route? Whereas, if we become a part of Oakland their rates

as established will prevail in our territory.

Extra fares to Oakland for myself and family for the current year foot up to three times my total taxes for the year on house and lot. Why pay this excessive rate when we can change it all by simply casting a ballot for annexation to Oakland on November 16. Respectfully,

G. A. MARSHALL,

6805 East Fourteenth street, Fitchburg, Cal.

miners who were buried under tons of rock and timbers in a cave-in in the Copper King mine, Friday, have been Falling rock warned the men that something was wrong and gave them

They had barely reached safety when the cave-in occurred. Forty men work-

An Unexpected Knock.

It is not surprising that the San Francisco Chronicle should make covert opposition to the enlargement of Oakland by annexation, for the Chronicle has long manifested a spirit of hostility to the growth and development of this city, but it is surprising to find Dr. F. F. Jackson, former Councilman and late candidate for Mayor, giving aid and comfort to the enemies of annexation. If he thinks he is rendering the people of this city a service by obstructing annexation he is badly mistaken. If he thinks he is adding to his popularity by so doing he is still more grievously mistaken.

Dr. Jackson says he is in favor of annexation, but he goes out of his way to denounce the articles of agreement between the officials of Oakland and the representatives of the district that it is proposed to annex as a huge joke. He says the city officials have exceeded their powers, and in other depreciating terms seeks to discredit the agreement. This is not the language of a friend of annexation. There is in it no note of generous encouragement for the men who are laboring for the larger and better Oakland.

Of course the agreement Dr. Jackson stigmatizes as a joke has not the binding force of law; nobody ever said it had, nor was it entered into in the belief, on either side, that it is legally enforceable. It is an agreement of honor—a gentlemen's compact—a declaration of intention solemnly covenanted in a way to carry conviction. The men who entered into that compact have the ability, with the backing of public sentiment, to carry out the terms of the covenant, and they are bound to do so by their plighted word. That they will keep faith admits of no question.

To raise the technical question of legality, as Dr. Jackson has done, is to throw cold water on the annexation project and throw discouragement on the scale against the efforts of the progressive citizens inside and out of the present city limits to create a bigger and better city and a municipal government that will give us more efficient police and fire protection, together with more comprehensive street and park improvements, at lower cost to the taxpayers. It is no time, in the heat of the campaign, for real friends of Oakland to raise quibbles and cast doubts on the good faith of the promoters of the annexation movement.

THE TRIBUNE is loth to believe that Dr. Jackson is covertly opposing annexation, but we must say that he has given it a knock that has no resemblance to a love tap. The Chronicle plays him up with the opponents of annexation, promptly classifying him with those who would permanently confine Oakland within her present geographical limits. We hope to see him take a less equivocal position and one more in harmony with the progressive movement to create a more powerful and impressive civic structure on this side of the bay. As for the Chronicle, it has been knocking Oakland so long that the habit has become fixed, and, we fear, is ineradicable.

Lords and Commons Clash.

The British Lords and Commons have locked horns on two reform measures—namely, on the budget which the Commons passed by an impressive and overwhelming majority, and on the Irish land bill, the Commons having rejected the amendments of the House of Lords to it at Friday's session by a decisive vote of 219 to 54.

The budget is now before the upper house. If the London Daily Telegraph's understanding of Lord Lansdowne's attitude is correct, he intends, as the leader of the opposition, to move the adoption of a resolution declining to accept the budget until its principles have received the sanction of the electors. The purpose of the resolution is evidently to force a dissolution of parliament, if such can be accomplished through its adoption by the Lords. The proposed procedure, if carried out, will be unprecedented, for it will be not only a direct attack on the government, but violative of the established and exclusive rights of the Commons on all questions relating to the raising of the revenues. On the budget, the powers of the Lords have been restricted to passive acquiescence in the bill when it came up to them from the Commons. It may tempt the government to apply drastic remedies in retaliation without appealing to the country. It is in the power of the government to administer an effective remedy.

The principles contained in the budget against which the Lords revolt is the graded income tax and the tax on the unearned increment of urban property. Both features have been incorporated in the bill to equalize on a juster basis than now exists the cost of the protection which the maintenance of the army and the navy give the larger incomes and the urban landed estates. The unearned increment represented in the latter consists of the increased valuation of property in the big cities, particularly in London, through the growth of population. The expansion of the big cities has been the means of enormously inflating the values of estates and the incomes derived therefrom which were originally of comparatively small value and volume.

The new Irish land bill, which the Lords have amended, facilitates the purchase of land by tenant farmers, the original land bill having failed of its purpose. The amendments of the Lords have largely emasculated it. While the Nationalists declined to vote on the budget, they will undoubtedly back the government in any action it may decide to take against the Lords on the land bill.

All Opposition Vanishes.

The campaign for water front improvements and new city hall bonds and the annexation of outside territory in Oakland and Brooklyn townships is progressing as favorably as the most ardent friends of both propositions can possibly desire. As to the bonds, every class and every interest in the community are of one accord in their favor. If anyone is opposed to either, they have not ventured to express their disapprobation. The vote on bonds will, THE TRIBUNE predicts, be a record-breaker as an example of community unity. It would be suicidal for it to be otherwise.

The same may be said now of the territory affected by the annexation election. Since a distinct understanding has been reached and an agreement entered into between the organized commercial bodies and those having official authority within the city proper and the representatives of what was an organized movement against annexation in the territory to be annexed, all opposition has vanished in every quarter interested in the result. All concerned are now puffing together.

If there should be any "knocking," whatever form it may take, it will, not avail anything. The tide is flowing too strong, and is so gaining in strength daily (for both bonds and annexation) that it is irresistible. The territory interested in the propositions to be voted upon on November 15 and 16 is wide-awake and every citizen in it is fully aware of the great benefits that is going to accrue to him through their adoption. Every individual residing within the present boundaries of Oakland is conscious of the fact that he will be personally benefited by the expenditure of nearly $4,000,000 in public works and buildings, not only temporarily but permanently. And every voting resident and property owner in the territory to be annexed is now aware of the great advantages that will result from annexation and thus laying the broad foundation here for one of the biggest and most important commercial and manufacturing cities on the Pacific Coast. The representatives of the outside district, in fact, achieved for their territory a greater triumph in the agreement made than they are possibly aware of. Indeed, it will not be possible for them to fully realize the benefits they have secured until they see the results which will immediately follow a favorable vote on annexation.

Let us all join in shouting for improvement bonds and annexation, and when the time comes show our sincerity by voting for them.

This week is to be devoted to a whirlwind campaign in the city in favor of bonds and annexation and in the suburbs to explain to citizens resident there the advantages to accrue to them through annexation under the guarantee of the agreement entered into between the municipal administration, the responsible organized commercial bodies of Oakland and the representatives of the campaign committee of the anti-annexationists who were organized to oppose union with Oakland. That agreement has converted all of the organized anti-annexationists into ardent supporters and workers for annexation. The bond election will be held next Monday. Every citizen should turn out then and vote them. The next day the annexation election will follow, and the voting should be so unanimous as to be merely a formal popular approval of the proposition, for opposition has totally disappeared.

The Bureau of Naturalization has interposed an objection to the granting of citizenship to a Turk in Tehama county pending the final judicial determination of the right of a Los Angeles Turk to be naturalized.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, the revenue derived from poultry is greater annually than the value of either the cotton crop, the wheat crop or the swine output. The egg output exceeds in value $290,000,000 a year. That is what the hen industry has returned to those engaged in it. What would be a fair estimate of the cost of the industry to consumers is a matter of speculation. But with fresh eggs selling as they are doing in Oakland today at five and one-half cents each, the consumers of the United States must have paid out many times $290,000,000 for the annual output of the poultry yards.

The decline of the high office of Governor of New Mexico by William Robinson, editor of the Roswell Register-Tribune, to whom the post was offered by President Taft, merely goes to show that there are still some men living who prize an established position in journalism higher than any political honors that can be conferred upon them.

A correspondent, commenting on the State Harbor Commission's desire to change the name of East street, San Francisco, to Embarcadero street, suggests that a more appropriate name for the thoroughfare would be "Gambrian way."

The awarding of a contract to the Oakland shipyard of Scott & Moore to build a six-thousand-ton steel collier is a great boost for Oakland harbor as well as for Oakland's steady industrial growth. It is worthy of note that most of the shipyards in San Francisco bay are now located on the shores of Oakland harbor, and they are growing in importance each successive year. Oakland is destined to become at an early day the Clyde of the Pacific Coast.

TIN-CANNED!

ONENESS OF THE WHOLE UNITED STATES

There has been much comment, wise and foolish, on President Taft's discovery of the oneness of the United States, our uniformity in language, thoughts, clothes, customs and manners, which has attracted the attention of all thoughtful people who have had occasion to "swing around the circle" of the United States.

James Bryce called attention to this phenomenon. Mrs. Humphry Ward, a keen observer of peoples, noticed the extraordinary effects of this assimilation during one of her Western trips. Walter Bagshot, in his illuminating work on "Physics and Politics," prepared the world to understand it by pointing out that the signal factor in making dissimilar people one, under a central government, was a faculty of unconscious imitation. Promote this faculty and various peoples tend to be resolved into a common type, with similar ideas and even approximate physical looks.

But no other people has displayed this assimilation on so grand a scale as is revealed among the 90,000,000 of the United States. Without any actual dialects in our English, our points of view, the very cut of our clothes, the very shape of the head, tend to be one. Mrs. Ward saw no differences in styles, especially among the women at the remotest railway stations. Our social customs, our manners, and even our morals—our immorals, witness the divorce evil—tend to become standardized. Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's day, Easter, in church and at home, become more and more alike the country over.

At a time when in Europe national and racial dissimilarities are asserting themselves, what makes for this oneness in America? One universal factor that especially promotes unconscious imitation 365 days in the year, by an overwhelming uniformity on every breakfast table and around the evening lamp by night, is the American newspaper. Complemented weekly and monthly by the magazine, this amazing publicity, which leaves no part of the United States in ignorance of what the other parts are doing, works its wonders.

And, despite the fact that nearly 331 publications in foreign languages, from Arabic to Russian, serve the special needs of nearly 13,000,000 of aliens, the great fact remains that the persistent daily and weekly and monthly reiteration of American ideas in a uniform English has, in largest part, wrought this miracle that astonishes the whole world.

And in saying this one does not ignore the influence of the American school. But school days are soon over, while the readership of the American newspaper is continuous and persistent, in season and out of season, and works its wonders hour by hour and day by day during youth, maturity, and green old age.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Seventy cents is the average price paid for a meal on a dining car." This statement was made by F. M. Dow of the Illinois Central Railroad, secretary of the American Association of Dining Car Superintendents, at their annual convention. "The table d'hôte system of meals is dying out among the railroads," added Mr. Dow. "The table d'hôte is better suited to the wants of country people. Railroad station lunch counters once so much talked about also are tending to become extinct, for people have found they can depend on the dining car service. But no railroad makes money directly from its dining cars."

Where are the new Lincoln one cent pieces? A man who wanted some walked from the city hall down Broadway the other day, and on the way bought twenty newspapers, paying a five cent piece every time and receiving four coppers in change in each case. When he made cash he found that he had received only one of the new coins. He gave his papers to a blind vender and went to the Sub-Treasury, and his story caused the query, "Where are the Lincoln pennies?"

Cesare Lombroso, in his article on "The Soul of the North American Millionaire," published recently in "Lettura," after describing the physiognomy of the American men of great wealth, said that only a few of them had the characteristics which are usually the accompaniment of genius. He added that they were small of stature and that in some cases the American millionaire was found to be "inches shorter than his wife." As to the children, the criminologist pronounced them "generally weak in body and soul," attributing this deficiency not to degeneracy so much as to "forced isolation."

Before Jacob Ruysdael's picture, "The Cornfields," loaned by Benjamin Altman for the Hudson-Fulton exhibition, a well dressed woman stood the other day and remarked to her companion, "The Cornfields." They don't look like cornfields. They look more like wheat fields. The labels must be mixed up." Thus has the meaning of "corn" in America been buried under the golden flood of Indian maize.

Now and then a scientific man announces that he has found the solution of the mystery, and the world for the moment is dazzled and even delirious over the announcement. But time passes, the doctor is unreported any more in the newspapers and mystery comes more closely its pitch black veil around the most interesting of human problems.

Can it be possible that nature, which seems so bound by law, so decisive, so wise, has its moments of indecision and uncertainty, and that these unhappy beings, neither man nor woman, are brought forth just during such moments, and so betray the conflicting hours of the generation? I leave this problem there; I have no more to say upon it. It remains in Chamberlain darkness.—T. F. O'Connor, in T. F.'s Weekly.

Getting into public office is such hard work for a man that he is too exhausted to do anything after he is in.

At a place called Kotron, on the French Ivory coast, the natives believe that to eat or destroy a turtle would mean death to the guilty one or sickness among the family. The fetish men, of whom there are plenty, declare that years ago a man went to sea fishing. In the night his canoe was thrown upon the beach empty. Three days afterward a turtle came ashore at the same place with the man on its back, alive and well. Since that time they have never eaten or destroyed one of that species, although they enjoy other species. If one happens now to be washed ashore there is a great commotion in the town. First the women sit down and start singing and beating sticks; next a small piece of white cloth (color must be white) is placed on the turtle's back. Food is then prepared and placed on the cloth, generally plantains, rice, and palm oil. Then, amid a lot more singing, dancing, and antics of the fetish people, it is carried back into the sea and goes on its way rejoicing.—London Globe.

MASCULINE WOMEN

If I had been a medical man there is no subject which would have inspired me with such interest as the study of masculine women.

Before Jacob Ruysdael's picture, "The Cornfields," loaned by Benjamin Altman for the Hudson-Fulton exhibition, a well dressed woman stood the other day and remarked to her companion, "The Cornfields." They don't look like cornfields. They look more like wheat fields. The labels must be mixed up." Thus has the meaning of "corn" in America been buried under the golden flood of Indian maize.

The fetish men, of whom there are plenty, declare that years ago a man went to sea fishing. In the night his canoe was thrown upon the beach empty. Three days afterward a turtle came ashore at the same place with the man on its back, alive and well. Since that time they have never eaten or destroyed one of that species, although they enjoy other species. If one happens now to be washed ashore there is a great commotion in the town. First the women sit down and start singing and beating sticks; next a small piece of white cloth (color must be white) is placed on the turtle's back. Food is then prepared and placed on the cloth, generally plantains, rice, and palm oil. Then, amid a lot more singing, dancing, and antics of the fetish people, it is carried back into the sea and goes on its way rejoicing.—London Globe.

Apples Are National Crop

Thirty-five million barrels, or 12,000,000 barrels more than in 1908, is the estimated apple crop of the United States and Canada this season according to Ben H. Rice, secretary-manager of the second national apple show in Spokane, November 15 to 20, who added: "While the quality of the product east of the Mississippi River is not as good as last year, the crop will be much larger and probably more profitable. The yield in the States west of the Mississippi is lighter than in 1908, but the fruit is of a better grade."

The International Apple Shippers' Association has issued an official statement that the crop in the New England States is 20 per cent in excess of 1908, while the yield in the central States is about 7 1/2 per cent below last year; and the middle Western States report a crop double that of last season, when the yield was light.

Growers in the Southern States report a crop from 125 to 150 per cent larger than in 1908. The Pacific group will have a smaller crop than last year, but the decreases in Idaho, Washington and New Mexico are more than made up by the big yield in Colorado, so that the Western crop will be fully as large as the previous season.

Losses are shown in reports from New York, New Hampshire, Kansas, and Oklahoma. Michigan, Wisconsin and other States have gains. The Dominion of Canada, not including Nova Scotia, shows a gain of 175 per cent, so the crop in the province of Nova Scotia is fully as large as in 1908, when a bumper crop was harvested.—New York Herald.

Christian Burials At Jerusalem

Until about fifty years ago Christians in Jerusalem, and Franciscans as well, were buried without a coffin, the latter simply in the habit of the order. At the grave the hood of the deceased was sewed shut over his face, and thus he was bedded in the earth. The former burial place of the Catholics was in the valley of the Cedron alongside the Garden of Gethsemane, at the foot of the Mount of Olives, where the Jews are still buried today. Only a century ago a new church yard was laid out on Mount Zion, the place where King David and his successors are still buried. The exact spot is unknown, although many attempts have been made to find it. An old tradition says that about the fifth century some workmen accidentally penetrated this vault. They looked in and saw the magnificent sarcophagi, but in trying to enter the chambers of the dead they were repulsed by flames of fire bursting forth from within. The frightened workmen closed the entrance to the vault, the exact location of which has been forgotten.—Crusaders' Almanac.

PROTECTING THE SEALS

Gatling guns, mountain howitzers and King-Jorgensen rifles made last summer's sealing season in the Privileged Islands free of depredations than ever before, according to W. I. Lembeck, United States government agent there, who has returned to Washington to prepare his annual report. This group of islands contains the richest seal rookeries in the world.

The determined raid made on the herd in 1906 by Japanese pelagic sealers, when they were driven off with a loss of five killed and many captured, introduced an element of danger to the good relations of Japan and the United States. Japanese schooners still hover outside the three-mile limit of American jurisdiction, but a revenue cutter patrol and a strong guard on the beach has discouraged raiding attempts. When at the opening of last season Mr. Lembeck went to his post he took several gatling guns and howitzers.

"There are about 300 natives on the islands of St. George and St. Paul, the latter being the larger," said Mr. Lembeck the other day. "It has a shore line of about fifty miles. The guard, which has been thoroughly organized, is posted at prominent lookout points. Telephone connection is maintained with headquarters, where the gatling and howitzers are kept on carriages ready for instant transportation to the scene of attack."

Twenty Years Ago in Oakland

At a place called Kotron, on the French Ivory coast, the natives believe that to eat or destroy a turtle would mean death to the guilty one or sickness among the family. Three days afterward a turtle came ashore at the same place with the man on its back, alive and well. CHARTING THE STARS

Long before science formed any theory as to their origin, even before there existed any written language, the stars were speculated about by the wise men of the tribes, and to their changing constellations were attributed all the events of human life. Attempts to chart the stars were made long before the invention of the telescope, one patient astronomer showing a catalogue of a life of application a catalogue of 1020, and for centuries this was regarded as an almost superhuman achievement. Then came the telescope, bringing into view at least 20,000 new worlds, and it was declared that a chart of even approximate accuracy was impossible. With every increase in the power of the telescope, thousands of additional stars are brought into view, but there are, apparently, millions of others still beyond the reach of the most powerful instruments in existence. The naked eye cannot distinguish stars beyond those of the sixth magnitude, not being able to see the satellites of the planets or the rings of Saturn, but with the aid of the telescope it is possible to photograph stars of the fourteenth magnitude.

It was the combination of the photographic plate and the telescope that made possible the accurate charting of the thousands of stars now known to exist, the task absolutely impossible by any other method being accomplished in an hour. The artificial retina, or sensitized plate, is more sensitive than the natural retina, the prints from photographic negatives showing stars invisible to the human eye through the same telescope that was used to obtain the negative.

The charting of the stars is now simply a matter of infinite care and patience. Flammarion gives a table of the probable number of stars to be catalogued down to the fourteenth magnitude. In every case, except in the case of stars of the sixth magnitude, the number of any particular magnitude is about three times that of the magnitude preceding. There are 20 stars of the first magnitude, 59 of the second, 182 of the third, and so on. It is estimated that there are 27,000,000 stars of the fourth magnitude.—Harper's Weekly.

INDIAN SQUAW WANTS DIVORCE

Idaho Redwoman Names Two Younger Women as Erring Husband's Affinities

LEWISTOWN, Idaho, Nov. 8.—Della Moses, a comely squaw, rather a novel point in legal jurisprudence in cross-complaint, filed in the district court, where her husband, James Moses, Jr., a wealthy Indian, formerly a member of the Nez Perce tribe, recently made application for a divorce, charging desertion.

Mrs. Moses sets out in her bill that when an American Indian severs his tribal relations, takes a position as a citizen and is given the privilege of transacting his business as a non-supporter, a duty and responsibility, also, that he must be governed by the laws of the state in which he resides.

She also asks for alimony for the support of herself and two minor children. She alleges desertion and non-support, and charges that two young squaws robbed her of her husband more than a year ago.

Della and James were married in 1902 and lived together happily until the summer of 1908, when Della, a native of the Snake River valley, and Ruth, Indians named as co-respondents, came into her husband's life. This is the first suit of its kind to be filed in the courts of Idaho, or in fact, in any state in the Northwest.

GETS INTO THEATER BY USE OF BIBLE

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 8.—Smiling with the consciousness of victory as he deposited his family Bible in the ticket office of the Trent theater as evidence that he was more than 16 years old, the age under which minors are forbidden to go to theaters unattended, Henry Peters enjoyed the vaudeville bill presented, and at its conclusion tucked his Bible under his arm and went home.

When Peters presented himself at the ticket window Edward T. Haven, the ticket seller, declined to sell him a ticket on the ground that he did not appear to be 16.

"Well, I am 16 years old, and two months more than that," asserted Peters. "You've got to show me," said Haven. A few minutes later Peters again presented himself at the box office.

"Say," said he, "here's the family Bible. I guess that'll do, won't it?" Haven took the book and, turning to the family record, found clearly written, "Henry Peters, born July 3, 1893, age 16 years, 8 months and 14 days. A member of the family."

"I guess that'll do," declared Haven.

CLASSIC DANCING PLEASES CROWDS

Orpheum Audience Gives Mile. Bianci Ovation--Bills Is Best in Weeks

One of the most beautiful spectacles that an Orpheum vaudeville bill has ever included served to delight the Sunday crowds at the theater yesterday when Mile. Bianci, the famous European danseuse, made her debut at the Orpheum. Classical dancing is not always appreciated as it should be by American theatergoers. In Europe the terpsichorean art is much better understood and its fine points are a matter of common knowledge with the mass of theater patrons. In America it is very different from this, but Mile. Bianci, in spite of this fact, demonstrated that it is possible for a great European dancer to rouse the American audience to the height of rapturous appreciation.

IN FOUR DANCES.
Mile. Bianci yesterday gave her four dances, entitled respectively "The Dresden China," "The Egyptian Dance," "The Dance of the Volant," and "The Satinette Dance." Special music by Paul Lincke, the author of "Castles in the Air" and "Glow Worm," is used in Mile. Bianci's offering. Special scenery and lighting effects enhance the beauty of her performance.

A rollicking farce called "A Very Bad Boy" was the contribution of Hal Gray and his company of players. Godfrey is an accomplished character actor who has won laurels with his country and Europe with this very same farce. The play is a fine example of what should be included in a vaudeville comedy sketch. The farce is a very fine farce and the laughs come with the regularity of clock work until the finish when the audience is in a state of helplessness from laughter.

NEW AGROBATIC STUNTS.
There is a new act from England, Keno Walsh and his company, who are the new comedians. They are a very fine act and in the city who are doing a very good act. The "revolving act" is a new act of apparatus and is a very fine act. The act is a very fine act and is a very fine act.

The vaudeville performance of General Ed La Vigne was greatly enjoyed by the crowds, although it is a question whether the comedy portion of his act is better than the serious portion. The comedy portion is not more than a few minutes and the serious portion is a very fine act. The act is a very fine act and is a very fine act.

HOWARDS GET OVATION.
Eugene and Willie Howard, the youngsters who have kept the crowds in such good humor during the last week, were again among the stars on the bill. They have a delightful melody of comedy chatter, clever imitations and some sweet songs, their offering being altogether one of the smartest of its kind in vaudeville. Ballerina's Canine Tumbler, a unique animal act, opened the show.

George Bloomquist, with his famous and lively play "Nerve" made a solid hit. The last number on the bill was contributed by Martinetti and Silverstein, known as the boys with chairs, who indulge on the stage in what they style "an attempt at suicide."

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the last 25 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health--There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Sold by Ogden's Drug Store.

President Launches Georgia-Carolina Fair; Makes Brief Speech

NEW ENGLAND STATES ARE INCLUDED IN TOUR

President Will Get But Brief Respite--Will Reach Washington on Nov. 21

AUGUSTA, Fla., Nov. 8.—President Taft brought his stay in Augusta to a close today after officiating at the opening of the Georgia-Carolina Fair. Governor Brown of Georgia and Governor Ansel of South Carolina were present and made brief addresses. Following his speech at the fair the President was driven through the city.

The President left here for Florence, S. C., where he will make a brief stop on his way to Wilmington, N. C. The President will spend Tuesday in Wilmington and Wednesday in Richmond, reaching Washington at the end of his 12,000-mile journey, Wednesday evening.

GET SHORT REST.
While Wednesday night officially marks the end of the Western and Southern trip, it will not by any means be the end of the President's travels prior to the opening of Congress in December. Mr. Taft will be in Washington less than twenty-four hours, being scheduled to leave the capital on Thursday for Middletown, Conn., where he will witness the installation of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The President will go to Norfolk on the 19th and to Hampton, Va., on the 20th, returning to Washington on the morning of November 21.

HAS EXPRESSED VIEWS.
It is not likely the President will do any work on his message to Congress until after his Norfolk trip. He has already outlined the essential points of the message in his speeches during the present trip. The details of his recommendations as to the amendment of the interstate commerce and anti-trust laws, however, have yet to be formulated for he will not receive the report of Attorney General Wickham and his other advisers on this subject until after his return to Washington.

The matter of financial legislation, if brought to the attention of the next session of Congress at all, undoubtedly will be treated in a special message. There is strong likelihood that the President will recommend legislation for the protection of the financial and currency measures will wait until the session opens in December, 1910. There has been much talk of an extra session in the fall of 1910 to take up the subject.

President Taft had a game of golf this morning over the links of the Augusta Country Club, where he spent so much time last winter while waiting for his term of office to begin.

GIRL STOWS AWAY ON RIVER BOAT

Agnes Russell, 11 Years Old, Found in Stockton; Spends Funds for Tooth Brush

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—After stowing away on a river steamer and doing without food for two days, eleven-year-old Agnes Russell, who disappeared from the home of her aunt, Mrs. Thomas C. Russell, 1728 Nineteenth avenue, this city, last Wednesday, was found in Stockton yesterday and turned over to her father.

TELLS OF THREATS.
Breaching the return to a home where she was unhappy, the girl again told away what she had endured. Her father was kept from her father, who said, she had threatened to kill her, and from her aunt, who she says, beat her. The girl left her aunt's home Wednesday afternoon and stowed away on a steamer bound for the evening. Her father was not discovered and she walked around Stockton all day trying to find the family of A. H. Barnes.

BUYS TOOTH BRUSH.
During her walk the girl found a twenty-five cent piece on the street, instead of buying food with it, she spent twenty cents for a tooth brush and paid the remaining five cents out in street change to the Barnes home.

J. M. Russell, the girl's father, is a farmer living near Lathrop. He was notified of his daughter's disappearance and sent him coming to the house and find, finding in a small house nearby until it left. She returned later at night and when he came yesterday she was turned over to him.

WOMAN'S ARM IS BROKEN IN FIGHT

Family Row Over Poisoning of Dog Being Investigated by Police

Investigation is being made by the police department into a fight that took place yesterday between the families of George, known as "Savannah" Brown, of 68 Montebello street, and T. M. Saffery, living on the same street. Miss Saffery has a broken arm and the Browns' pet dog is dead as the result of the neighborhood trouble, but who is to blame, and who, if any one, is to be arrested, the police have not determined yet.

Some one poisoned "Fido," the prize terrier of the Brown household. Brown's son said that the Saffery family had done it, and yesterday the father accused Saffery of being a dog poisoner. Also they attacked him and tried to punish him. Mrs. Saffery saw the unequal fight and rushed to her husband's rescue. In the melee she was knocked to the ground, breaking her left arm above the wrist.

Policeman McKean was delayed to investigate the matter. He reported that Fido was dead and that Mrs. Saffery's arm was broken. No arrests have yet been made.

NECESSARY LANDS KEPT THROUGH DRASTIC ORDER

Withdrawals Cut to Actual Boundaries of Power Sites

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Secretary Ballinger's widely discussed revocation of the famous "Garfield order," withdrawing from settlement a million and a half acres of public lands and the substitution therefore of a withdrawal order withholding from settlement 300,000 acres, today was declared by Ballinger to have been wholly promotive—not subversive—of the conservation policy.

A lengthy explanation of the cancellation of the Garfield withdrawal was given to the press by Ballinger, who asserted that it was a logical step in the prosecution of the policy of conserving the water power on the Federal domain, and one which Garfield must have taken himself had he remained in office.

ONLY NECESSARY LAND.
"The first order was a blanket withdrawal, issued to cover the emergency, without taking time to ascertain just where the power sites were located," Secretary Ballinger said. "Intelligent prosecution of the policy demanded that as soon as possible the lands after the sites be located and the lands not needed to protect them be restored to entry. It would be an unwarranted reflection on Secretary Garfield to assume that he would not have done precisely what I did—ascertain as soon as possible where the power sites were actually located and issue a new order withdrawing them from settlement and restoring to entry all lands not needed for that purpose."

IS PROTECTIVE MEASURE.
"I found that by utilizing the geological survey, instead of the reclamation service, which had been employed by my predecessor, I could secure accurate information as to the location of the power sites. On consultation with the legal officers of my department I found that I could make withdrawal orders retroactive—that is, that I could issue withdrawal orders later that would effectively protect any power sites within the boundaries which might have been made by the Interior. The retroactive provision of the subsequent withdrawals operated completely to preserve the sites."

POWER SITES PROTECTED.
"Not a single power site has passed out of the possession of the Government during this administration. I found that the withdrawal order I issued protected 50 per cent more power sites than were covered by the Garfield order. This implies no criticism of the Garfield order, and merely shows that the Garfield order was tentative."

My first withdrawal order was dated May 4, 1905, and the last, which included many of the lands formerly withdrawn, June 10, 1909, but each of these orders contained the language, 'All existing claims, filings and entries are temporarily suspended.' As a matter of fact, there was not a single filing made on a power site during the interim. On the other hand, the restoration to entry of over a million acres of land not needed to protect the power sites alleged widespread discontent and thus avoided unnecessarily making enemies for the conservation policy. Since June 10th I have made twenty-five additional withdrawals in entirely new territory.

FOREST SERVICE CO-OPERATES.
Secretary Ballinger stated that his orders of withdrawal do not protect power sites within forest reservations, and added an explanation that previously he had offered to include power sites on forest reservations, but that the offer was declined on the ground that the forest service could take care of such sites. The Secretary asserted that a number of forest reserves had been established by mistake and that some of these he was not at liberty to discuss.

CHARGES JUDGE WITH LAND SWINDLE

Heir Says Butte County Jurist Defrauded Widow and Children.

SUES TO RECOVER BIG GOLD-BEARING ESTATE

Judge Gray Said to Have Used Official Position to Get Custody of Lands.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—Charging Superior Judge John C. Gray of Butte county with using his court to defraud Mrs. Johanna Morrissey and her eight children out of 300 acres near Oroville, now worth $150,000, Attorney W. H. Morrissey of this city has filed suit to recover the property for his mother, brothers and sisters.

He declares frauds were committed seventeen years ago, soon after Gray's first appointment to the Butte county bench, and said yesterday that a sensational trial would be the result of his action.

The discovery of gold upon the property has greatly increased its value, for the 300 acres are within what is known as the "Oroville" district. OBTAIN CHILDREN'S SIGNATURES.
Judge Gray, in the complaint filed on Saturday in Butte county, is charged with obtaining the signatures of little children to a deed to the property, while sitting as a judge on matters in which he had a personal interest and with other fraudulent acts through which he gained possession of Widow Morrissey's valuable lands.

The action includes as defendants W. P. Hearn, the millionaire mining man, the Ridgeout-Smith bank and others interested in a minor way. "We are charging Judge Gray with frauds," said Attorney Morrissey yesterday, "and expect to prove our case from the records of his own court. Two years ago I brought suit for a portion of the property involved in the new action and only a few weeks ago got judgment. Now evidence that I found during the trial of the former action leads to the present suit, which involves about $150,000."

GRAY WAS ATTORNEY.
Timothy Morrissey, an old resident of Butte county, died intestate in 1887. There was a $1500 mortgage upon the 300 acres then worth about $50 an acre. This was held by C. W. Wick. Morrissey alleges that his mother employed Gray as her attorney in proving the estate and expects to show that while so acting he advised Wick to foreclose, telling him that he (Gray) would take the property off his hands. Morrissey asserts that at this time Gray was appointed Superior Judge of Butte county, and that he actually set upon the bench while the foreclosure was before the court.

The complaint alleges that Mrs. Morrissey alone, of the heirs of Timothy Morrissey, was served in the foreclosure proceedings, through the efforts of Wick, who were minor heirs, and further alleges that the estate was never made a defendant.

DEED CALLED FRAUDULENT.
It is further charged that after the foreclosure proceedings, in 1902, Gray made an order directing the sheriff to make an amended or new return, showing the estate to have been made a party to the action, and further alleges that Gray took a deed subsequent to the foreclosure proceedings, and while still on the bench, from the widow and children. He says this was sworn to before Gray's son, Carleton Gray, in 1904, before the statutory time for redemption after foreclosure had passed.

The property has an added value because of its location between the city of Oroville and large towns being erected by the Western Pacific Company. Adjacent property is being cut up into town lots and selling at good figures.

DRESSMAKER HIT HIM WITH PITCHER

Fisherman Gets Beaten and Then Placed Under Arrest for Fighting

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—Following a row in a lodging house on Commercial street at 2 o'clock this morning, Ernest Loman, 1321 Blake street, Berkeley, a young Alaska fisherman, was severely beaten over the head and later he was himself arrested for disturbing the peace, together with his assailant, a dressmaker, with having struck him with a pitcher, and she was accordingly taken into custody. On complaint of other persons in the house, the injured man was also arrested and taken to the city prison after his wound had been dressed at the Central Emergency hospital.

Just how the trouble began could not be learned, but when Policeman McCone arrived he found Loman lying prostrate on the floor, bleeding from a wound in the head. He accused Paulina Robert, a dressmaker, with having struck him with a pitcher, and she was accordingly taken into custody. On complaint of other persons in the house, the injured man was also arrested and taken to the city prison after his wound had been dressed at the Central Emergency hospital.

BLACKMAILER BAND POISONING HORSES

More Than 250 Valuable New York Animals Killed in Last Few Months

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—More than 250 valuable horses in east side stables have been poisoned to death in the last few months by a gang of blackmailers, whom the police are eagerly searching. Detectives declare that owners of horses in that section have already paid $10,000 to the blackmailers and that their animals have enjoyed immunity.

Dr. H. Stark, chief inspector for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, declares that while more than 250 horses have been killed by poisoning, upwards of 2000 animals have been given poison but were saved.

The methods of the blackmailers is to demand, through a letter, money from the proposed victim on penalty of having his horses killed. If the second demand is ignored, one or more of the victim's horses die. Invariably they are given arsenic.

IS PICKED OUT OF GUTTER BY WAGON

Strange and Unfortunate Experiences of Sleeper With a Scenery Wagon

John Mahoney, a laborer living at the Ruby House, after a strenuous attempt to reduce the world's visible supply of spirits, vinous and malt liquors late Saturday night and early Sunday morning, sought slumber in a gutter at the corner of Seventh and Dublin streets. As he slept the sheep of the soiled, George Verinder, of the People's Water Company, came along with a truckload of theatrical scenery. He failed to see the sleeping form and drove directly over it. A soft-driven into a piece of the scenery dragged on the ground, caught the unconscious Mahoney in the seat of the trousers and started away with him.
